LTC Joshua O. Newbrough
Commander, US Army Aviation Battalion Japan

LTC Josh Newbrough is originally from Warren, Ohio and Commissioned through the Army's Officer Candidate School in 2007. He received a Bachelor's degree in Management from Johnson and Wales University and holds a Master's of Business Administration from the College of William and Mary.

LTC Newbrough's military education includes: The Basic Airborne Course, the Air Assault Course, the Aviation Officer Basic Course, the Military Intelligence Captains Career Course, the Special Operations Training Course, the Army's Command and General Staff College, and Aircraft Qualification Courses for the OH-58 A/C, UH-60L, UH-60M, MH-60L, and MH-60M.

LTC Newbrough's military assignments included: Fire Team Leader in C Company 1-21 Infantry Regiment; Shops Platoon Leader, D Company, 3-227th Assault Helicopter Battalion; Flight Platoon Leader, A Company, 3-227th Assault Helicopter Battalion; Flight Platoon Leader, C Company, 4-160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment (Abn); Company Commander, D Company, 2-158th Assault Helicopter Battalion; Assistant Operations Officer, 4-160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment; Battalion Executive Officer, 2916th Aviation Battalion; Brigade Executive Officer, 916th Support Brigade; Battalion Executive Officer, 2-1 General Support Aviation Battalion; and Brigade Executive Officer, 1st Combat Aviation Brigade. He most recently served as an Operational and Strategic Planner in the Army's Training and Doctrine Command G-3/5/7.

LTC Newbrough's awards and decorations includes: the Meritorious Service Medal (4 OLC); Air Medal; Army Commendation Medal (3 OLC); Air and Space Commendation Medal; Army Achievement Medal (2 OLC); Combat Infantry Badge; Senior Aviation Badge; Parachutists Badge; and Air Assault Badge.

LTC Newbrough is joined by his wife Chelsea from Dover, Delaware and they have five children. Declan Ward-Newbrough (20), Adley Ward-Newbrough (19), Chloe Wilson (16), Teagan Newbrough (9), and Rory Newbrough (7).